

Arts in Education Artist Roster Application Instructions

Introduction

The Arts in Education (AIE) program is designed to strengthen the role of the arts in preK-12 educational settings by fostering aesthetic awareness and participation in the arts as an integral part of life and the basic education process.

Local schools and community nonprofit organizations may sponsor professional artists in preK-12 residencies at specific sites or in conjunction with other nonprofit community organizations to provide a way for artists to demonstrate their art form, create or perform works of art so that participants may observe the creative process and relate their art form to other preK-12 curriculum areas. During a residency, artists are based in a school or a community organization where they work with a site coordinator and key staff members to develop programs and activities based on the site's needs and facilities.

At the heart of the AIE residency program is the belief that an artist can make an invaluable contribution to the educational process. At the site, artist activities may include, but are not limited to:

- *instructing students
- *conducting in-service workshops
- *advising activity groups
- *initiating a community lecture series
- *developing curriculum material for arts education
- *organizing an exhibition of work by students, teachers or themselves
- *encouraging advocacy efforts for the arts in education

Please note: Applicants should correlate their proposals to the Arkansas Department of Education's statewide goals for Arkansas students. These goals are established by the Arkansas Curriculum Frameworks (<http://arkansased.org/teachers/curriculum.html>), which define state academic standards for curriculum planning, and/or the Character-Centered Teaching Initiative (<http://arkansased.org/teachers/cct.html>), which integrates lessons on character development into the curriculum or other learning situations such as after school or summer programming.

The goal of the AIE residency program is to provide a continuous arts experience with substantial learning. The emphasis should focus on the artistic process more than the product. AIE residency programs are traditionally sequential- subject matter is chronologically ordered according to age-appropriateness and grade level, and curriculum based- the program demonstrates meaningful connections between the art form and other subject areas. The artist should work with an identified core group of participants who meet with the artist in repeated sessions and is no larger than a regular class size. The rest of the students may also gain an exposure to the artist and art form through assemblies, studio visits or short workshops. Typically, the artist is scheduled for no more than four hours of contact time per day. This means four one-hour or 45-50 minute sessions per day, with the remaining time used for the artist's own work or professional development. The residency schedule must be discussed between the artist and sponsor and approved by the artist prior to the start of the residency.

Artists in residence are not to be used as regular classroom teachers with attendant duties and responsibilities. Residency programs should be developed to maximize the skills of the artist within the context of his or her individual discipline to ensure quality, in-depth arts and educational experiences for the participants. For more information, copies of the booklet, "Planning a Successful Arts in Education Program," are available from the Arkansas Arts Council.

Humanities scholars and folklorists should enclose one copy of a written sample of scholarship (critical essay, article or publication), no more than eight pages, with images as appropriate.

5. REVIEW PANELS

Peer review panels determine the eligibility of artists for inclusion in the Arkansas Arts Council AIE program. The panel members are chosen for their professional experience in arts and education and include practicing artists, arts educators, and representatives of arts institutions and agencies.

6. CRITERIA FOR ARTIST SELECTION

- Excellence in the production of his/her artistic work.
- Demonstrated ability to work in educational settings, which include diverse groups of any age.
- Evidence of experience with curriculum-based arts activities.
- Demonstrated understanding of the Arkansas Curriculum Frameworks and/or the Character Centered Teaching Initiative.

7. RESIDENCY PROGRAM LENGTHS

The Arts in Education program may vary in length and have different goals and budget constraints:

Short-term Residency Program (ten days to two months)

Suggested to help broaden the participant's arts experiences by adding a new arts component to a curriculum or program. Provides a foundation upon which long-term programs can be built.

Long-term Residency Program (three months to ten months)

Suggested for sites with on-going residency programs to allow sponsors the flexibility to work with the artist to develop and implement a program specifically tailored to the site needs. This type provides the applicant greater access to the artist, more time for in-service sessions, community projects, public performances and/or exhibitions and more opportunities for comprehensive student interaction. The length of the residency provides the artist more time to complete the on-site work. Visiting artists may be used during long-term residency.

Visiting Artist Residency (one to five days)

Another roster artist is brought in to augment the work of the artist selected for an on-going Arts in Education residency program.

Multi-year Residency

Multi-year residencies allow time for artists to help to establish a continuing arts program at the school or community site. Returning sponsors who wish to apply for funding for a multi-year residency must detail the rationale for doing so in the AIE grant application's criteria summary.

8. COMPENSATION

Sponsors should budget for expenses to cover at least one on-site planning meeting with the artist prior to the start of the Arts in Education program.

Artist Fees

AIE residency grants will pay no more than the maximum fees listed below. The artist and sponsor may negotiate for higher artist payments, but any amount over the grant maximum must be paid from other funding sources.

hourly = $43.75 (up to the $175/day limit)

1 day (4 hours contact time) = $175

1 week (5 working days) = $875

1 month (4 weeks) = $3,500

Artist Travel

Reasonable round trip travel expenses from the artist's home base to the residency site outside the local phone calling area are allowable. Travel by car should be estimated at 45 cents per mile.

If the artist resides in another state, travel expenses should be estimated from the Arkansas state line entry point.

Artist Lodging

The Arkansas Arts Council will fund meals at $39 per day and lodging expenses up to a maximum of $70 per night during the AIE program. Any costs over these Arts Council limits must be paid from other funding. Sponsors are strongly encouraged to pursue possible in-kind donations for lodging but should discuss arrangements with the artist to determine acceptable lodging conditions prior to submitting the application. If an artist must travel more than 50 miles per day, it is recommended they stay overnight in the site's community.

Supplies

Sponsoring organizations or schools should discuss supply needs with the artist and determine costs prior to submitting the application. In-kind donations for supplies are encouraged.

9. TERMS OF AGREEMENT

1. Acceptance into the Arts in Education program of the Arkansas Arts Council is not a guarantee of employment. Final selection of an artist for a residency is the responsibility of the sponsoring organization.
2. The artist is paid directly by the sponsoring organization. Fees and terms will be agreed upon between artist and sponsor in accordance with the compensation guidelines above.
3. Selected artists are placed on the roster for one year. Roster artists are then required to complete an Annual Artist Roster Update Form to remain eligible. These are available in the spring.
